Kevin Gregson looks at the camera in a police interrogation video and apologizes to Eric Czapnik's family. HANDOUT

Safety latch kept Czapnik from shooting me: Accused killer

On trial. Court hears accused killer describe struggle for weapon in video

JESSICA SMITH
jessica.smith@metronews.ca

If it hadn't been for the latch on Const. Eric Czapnik's holster, the officer "would've been OK," according to the man on trial for his murder.

Kevin Gregson said so during a police interview conducted after he stabbed Czapnik at the Ottawa Hospital Dec. 29, 2009.

In a video of the interview, shown in court Tuesday, Gregson wears only a suicide-proof jumpsuit and talks to Ottawa police Sgt. Timothy Hodgins for more than three hours about his Mormon faith, his inability to kill himself with a knife and why that led him to the hospital in search of a police officer to steal a gun from.

After two and a half hours, Sgt. Timothy Hodgins challenges him: "Do you even know how to take our guns out of our holsters?"

"Do the slide thing," Gregson says, softly and then changes his tone, suddenly sounding alarmed. "Oh, hey, that's right. Oh, my gosh."

Then he says he doesn't know how to unlatch a gun from an Ottawa police holster — only how to slide one out of the RCMP holsters he used as a Mountie.

"Did he even go to his gun?" Hodgins asks.

"Yes, he did. We were both grabbing for it.... I might regret this. If he didn't have that latch, he would've been OK."

Gregson clams up, telling Hodgins he'll hear his story one day in court.

Throughout the video he never says he "stabbed" Czapnik, but his lawyers admit that as a fact.

At the end, Hodgins tells him to look up at the camera and say something to Czapnik's family.

"I'm sorry about your dad," Gregson says.

"That's it?" asks Hodgins.

"Yeah, that's it," Gregson replies.

Facility saw through X-ray scam

Provincewide. X-ray fraud likely stretched across Ontario, according to police

What do barrels containing an estimated 30,000 stolen X-rays add up to?

Apparently a bunch of silver and a whole heap of trouble for one Toronto man, say Ottawa police.

"I'm not up on the chemical process, but apparently there is silver that can be extracted from the X-ray film and with that many it can add up to a good chunk," said Staff Sgt. Kevin McCaffery, on Tuesday.

Hospitals and medical labs have contracts with firms that recycle the silver and most have a regular pick up arranged. But McCaffery said an alert was sent out from the Toronto area recently about a man pretending to be an employee of one of these recycling firms. He said the scam became apparent to lab workers when the real recycling firm showed up after a fake pick up.

McCaffery said an Ottawa facility became suspicious when a man showed up for their X-rays and notified police.

Billy Dimitro, 37, was arrested by Ontario police in the Smiths Falls area Feb. 22 after Ottawa police gave them information about a vehicle obtained from the Ottawa lab, McCaffery said.

He said Ottawa police are now handling the investigation and suspect that many facilities around Ontario may have been targeted.

Dimitro is to appear in court next week on a single count of fraud, McCaffery said. SEAN MCKIBBON/METRO

Salvation Army strike enters second month

Unionized workers gather outside the office of Graham Bird, a Salvation Army Board member, in protest of their continued wage dispute. SEAN MCKIBBON/METRO

Salvation Army workers at the Booth Centre entered their second month on strike Tuesday as they continued to demand management increase wages.

The workers marked the two-month strike by protesting at noon Tuesday in front of the office of Graham Bird, a Salvation Army Board member, to present Bird with an information package backing up their demands for increased wages.

About 60 unionized workers at the George Street location walked off the job Jan. 6. Salvation Army management said in a statement

Tuesday the organization is continuing to provide social services to its clients during the strike, but it would like to see the workers return to work.

"The Salvation Army values its employees and the important contribution they make in caring for our vulnerable clients, which is why we have developed a fair and equitable offer for our unionized employees," said Michael Maidment, Salvation Army spokesperson.

Management is offering employees a 7.5 per cent increase over three years, retroactive to April 1, 2011.

The offer also includes signing bonuses of $500 and $250 for full-time and part-time employees respectively.

Management also said it is willing to go to binding arbitration if the union and its membership agrees.

The Public Service Alliance of Canada local 73100, which represents the workers at the Booth Centre, said at the beginning of the strike that arbitration would not be an option. The union said management's offer isn't fair and they want higher wage increases.

Local chefs go head-to-head on reality cooking show

Top Chef Canada.

Local men among chefs competing for grand prize of $100k and a GE Monogram kitchen worth $30k

JOE LOFARO
joe.lofaro@metronews.ca

Local chefs Curtis Luk and Jonathan Korecki may have a cordial relationship when they pass by each other in the By-Ward Market alleyway, but on Top Chef Canada they are definitely rivals.

They are among 16 Canadian chefs chosen to compete on Season 2 of the Food Network Canada reality series, which premieres Monday at 10 p.m. Each week contestants are eliminated as they perform several culinary challenges.

Luk, a sous-chef at Courtyard Restaurant on George Street, was a big fan of the American series and wanted to try his luck with the Canadian flavour of the show. "It's always been a bit of an ambition of mine to get on and see what I can do because the challenges seemed interesting," he said.

Korecki, head chef at Side-door Contemporary Kitchen and Bar on York Street, just wanted to see how he would stand up against the other competitors.

The free-for-all competition means the pair often battle against each other, but at times, it worked in their favour.

"Even though we're competing against each other, we're also watching each other's back," said Luk.

Korecki said the show will be broadcast on Mondays and that viewers can expect "a lot of high octane cooking."

"It's awesome as Canadians to be able to see chefs from our country and see how hard they work," said Korecki.

Students mark engineering week Wylie-Coyote style

Notre Dame Catholic High School student Angela Du, 15, moves her finger to topple a set of dominos Tuesday to activate a Rube Goldberg machine built by Carleton University students. JOE LOFARO/METRO

In theory a chain reaction of dominoes, a toy truck and a host of other improbable objects could be used to light up Canada's tallest free-standing structure ... if everything were to go according to plan.

Ottawa high school students helped design a Rube Goldberg machine at Carleton University as part of an engineering experiment that will illuminate the CN Tower with purple lights Wednesday.

In theory, 11 of the machines that were recently built at post-secondary schools that belong to the Engineering Student Societies' Council of Ontario (ESSCO) could start a chain reaction when a telephone connected to the first machine activates a telephone at the subsequent machine.

The Rube Goldberg machine in Toronto will be the one that will actually initiate a switch in the CN Tower to light it purple.

A video of the operation of each machine will be edited together to showcase what it would look like if the chain reaction were to happen flawlessly.

Romney cruises in New England

GOP. Rivals slug it out in 10-state race that will help decide the Republican party's presidential candidate

Mitt Romney has taken three states while his closest rival, Rick Santorum, has snagged two on so-called Super Tuesday, the biggest single day in the Republican presidential race and one the front-runner was hoping could finally give his campaign an impenetrable shield of momentum.

Romney crushed the competition in Massachusetts, where he served as governor for four years, and also handily won Virginia and Vermont. Santorum, meantime, won Tennessee and Oklahoma, where his stances on hot-button issues play well with both states' Christian evangelical voters.

Romney was looking to clear a significant hurdle on Super Tuesday in his dash to secure the presidential nomination while Santorum hoped some electoral successes would revive his flagging campaign and keep him nipping at the front-runner's heels.

But neither Santorum nor Newt Gingrich, who handily took his home state of Georgia, were on the ballot in Virginia, limiting opportunities for both men to gain ground on Romney, who took 58 per cent of the vote according to early, unofficial results. Ron Paul won 43 per cent.

The former speaker of the House of Representatives, however, wasn't expected to win the other nine states. Nonetheless, Gingrich suggested the Georgia win portended future victories.

"This is amazing," he said as he launched into a victory speech, chastising "the elite" of the media, the punditry and the Republican party who have repeatedly written off his campaign. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Trial. Tori Stafford's last day revealed to jury

On the last day of Victoria Stafford's life, the "lovely little girl" used a computer to research plants, got her tights wet by jumping in puddles, and had a time-out for goofing around, her teacher testified Tuesday.

The Grade 3 student also asked for permission to run back to her classroom at the end of the day to retrieve a pair of earrings she had forgotten, Jennifer Griffin Murrell told court.

Tori went to get them and left about one minute after the bell, behind her classmates.

Because the girl wasn't wearing the butterfly earrings, Griffin Murrell asked her if she had found them.

and Tori said she had.

"I said, OK, hun, we'll see you tomorrow," Griffin Murrell told court.

She never saw Tori again.

The eight-year-old vanished shortly after leaving school that day — April 8, 2009.

Three months later, her partially clothed remains were found in garbage bags and under rocks in a field more than 100 kilometres from her Woodstock, Ont. home.

The Crown alleges Michael Rafferty and Terri-Lynne McClintic, who has already pleaded guilty to first-degree murder, snatched Tori outside her school and, within hours, sexually assaulted and killed her. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Michalek's three in the third seals win for Senators

NHL. Forward has big night, scoring goals No. 30, 31 and 32 to improve on his career-high season

Milan Michalek scored three third-period goals, helping the Ottawa Senators withstand a Tampa Bay comeback attempt and beat the Lightning 7-3 on Tuesday night.

Ottawa, which took a three-goal lead early on, went up 5-3 when Michalek scored a power-play goal at 12:12 of third. The left wing added two empty-net goals, including a short-handed effort with seven seconds left, to give him 32 goals this season.

Tampa Bay got within 4-3 when Steven Stamkos scored his league-leading 48th goal of the season during a power play at 5:41 of the third. The centre has five goals and three assists during a five-game point streak.

Sergei Gonchar, Colin Greening, Kyle Turris and Erik Karlsson had the other Ottawa goals. Michalek also had an assist, setting up Greening's goal with a nifty Ryan Shannon and Tim Wallace also scored for the Lightning. Teddy Purcell assisted on Stamkos' goal and has 14 assists and 20 points during a career-high 10-game point streak.

Tampa Bay goalie Mathieu Garon left four minutes into the game with an undisclosed lower-body injury after making a save and was replaced by Dwayne Roloson. Garon, who had gone 12-3-2 in his previous 17 starts, appeared to get hurt when he kicked out his leg on the play.

Greening and Turris scored 53 seconds apart late in the first as Ottawa took a 3-0 lead. Greening scored from the low slot, while Turris' shot went off Tampa Bay defenceman Brett Clark.

Goaltender Ben Bishop made 25 saves in his Senators debut.

Colts, Manning break up imminent: Report

Peyton Manning and the Colts will part ways on Wednesday according to an ESPN report. ANDY LYONS/GETTY IMAGES FILE

The Peyton Manning era in Indianapolis is expected to end Wednesday, according to a report.

Citing anonymous sources, ESPN reported Tuesday that the Colts plan to hold a news conference to announce the long-expected decision. Manning is expected to attend.

Team owner Jim Irsay and Manning's agent, Tom Condon, did not immediately respond to messages left by The Associated Press. Team spokesman Avis Roper said he could not confirm the decision or the news conference because Irsay was out of town and unreachable.

Manning turns 36 later this month, and missed the entire 2011 season after a third neck surgery. Before that, he'd never missed a game in his 13 NFL seasons.

He is owed a $28 million roster bonus on Thursday, and with the Colts holding the top draft pick, they apparently have decided it was too risky and pricey to keep the four-time league MVP.

Manning is the Colts' career leader in every major passing category, one of only four players in NFL history to throw for more than 50,000 yards and is third all-time in touchdown passes (399). THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Injury timeline

- During the 2009 off-season, after a Super Bowl loss, Manning had his first neck surgery.
- Then, after an early playoff exit in 2010, he had another neck surgery to repair a nerve causing weakness in his arm.
- Last July, Irsay signed Manning to a new five-year, $90 million extension. But the nerve did not heal as quickly as expected and Manning had two vertebrae fused together forcing him to miss the season.

Going gaga for gurus

Spiritual humour. Comedy mixed with spirituality can work if done well — or prove toxic for both audiences and critics

Richard Crouse
scene@metronews.ca

What do spiritual gurus and comedy have in common? More than you might think. Deepak Chopra, possibly the world's most famous guru, says, "When your soul responds to the paradox of our existence, to the contradictions of our existence, to the fact that wherever there is joy there is suffering, when your soul recognizes this, it can do nothing except laugh."

In other words, chuckle — it's good for your soul.

These are words to live by, particularly if you are Eddie Murphy in A Thousand Words, opening this weekend. In this comedy, Murphy plays a shady literary agent who cheats a spiritual guru in a business deal. His punishment teaches him the value of every word that comes out of his mouth.

A Thousand Words isn't the first comedy to go gaga for gurus.

In the 1968 counter-culture hit I Love You, Alice B. Toklas!, Peter Sellers plays a 30-something who visits a maharishi for enlightenment. "You will know yourself when you stop trying," he is told. "I'm trying to stop trying," Sellers replies.

A year later came The Guru, a movie that echoed the real-life musical journey of Beatle George Harrison's internship with Ravi Shankar. Michael York starred as a famous British rock 'n' roller who travels from London to Bombay to study sitar at the feet of guru Ustad Zafar Khan.

Director James Ivory (who along with producer Ismail Merchant would go on to make Howard's End and The Remains of the Day) called The Guru "the most unseen and mysterious of our movies ... Merchant Ivory's version of a '60s trip."

Sharing a title is the 2002 Jimi Mistry film about a young Indian man who moves to New York with dreams of becoming an actor but instead becomes a sex guru who doles out catchphrases such as, "the most powerful sexual organ is your brain."

In The Love Guru, Mike

Myers mixed gross-out humour with spiritualism, a combo that proved toxic for both audiences and critics.

Even Mike's own guru agreed it flopped. "Humour mixed with spirituality can work, if it's done well," Deepak Chopra, who has a cameo in the film, said. "But frankly speaking, this was not a good attempt."

So what exactly do gurus and comedy have in common?

Myers says he learned from Chopra that "ha ha" is related to "ah ha," the sound one makes upon the realization of truth. "Maybe it's that simple."

Kirk Cameron's former Growing Pains co-stars won't show him that smile

Born-again Christian and former Growing Pains star Kirk Cameron recently told CNN's Piers Morgan that being gay is "unnatural," "detrimental" and "ultimately destructive to so many of the foundations of civilization," and his remarks have earned him a considerable amount of blowback.

Among those criticizing Cameron? His former sitcom co-stars. Tracy Gold posted to Twitter, "I am a strong supporter of the LGBT Community, and I believe in equal rights for all," while Alan Thicke, who played Cameron

Kirk Cameron

Reality star off the rails

Tila Tequila: Was it an aneurysm, overdose or suicide attempt?

THE WORD
Dorothy Robinson
scene@metronews.ca

Was Tila Tequila's recent hospitalization due to a brain aneurysm, a drug overdose or a suicide attempt? Whatever the reason, the former reality star is all kinds of WTF.

Radar Online is saying that a brain aneurysm made her "think irrationally" and ingest "two bottles of unspecified heavy prescription drugs."

"Tila threw up all over her bed after overdosing and felt like she was dying. She was screaming for help, and in desperation, broke her bedroom window and attempted to jump out," a source says.

"Finally, a friend came over after getting a strange text from her and found her convulsing on the bed. He called an ambulance and she was taken to the hospital."

Reports say Tequila was treated at two different hospitals over a week's span, but she's not out of the woods yet.

"She still can't fully speak properly," the source says. "It's sad to think she may have some permanent brain damage." But TMZ.com says all the drama was caused by a suicide attempt and that she'd been trying "kill herself all week."

We've said it once, we'll say it a million times: Mamas, don't let your daughters grow up to be reality TV stars.

There's more to Palm Springs than dusty desert and palm trees. In fact, this sunny vacation paradise has become a mecca for the rich and famous.

Not only did the city's late great celeb mayor Sunny Bono recreate Hollywood, with the California city's own walk of fame, he ushered in one of the most impressive film festivals

If you go...

- Hit the hot tub at Palm Mountain Resort and Spa. The perfect spot to unwind in the radiance of the desert sun, just steps from Palm Canyon Drive downtown.
- Visit the Village Pub. Great live music and cheap drinks at this little pub. One of my favourite places in town!

Darren Parkman with Clint Eastwood in Palm Springs DARREN PARKMAN

in North America, right there in the middle of the Mojave.

It was a thrill for me to actually get a chance to hit the red carpet and hobnob with some of the biggest stars on the planet at a recent desert festival. The likes of none other than Leonardo DiCaprio and Clint Eastwood told me that even they were impressed with this desert oasis and what it's become. Palm Springs just has that laid back casual vibe, so it's not uncommon to see A-list celebs strolling on nearby Palm Canyon Drive, or having a drink at the very cool mid-century modern Parker

Hotel, where the famous stay and play. Of course, stars have been linked to Palm Springs for many decades, and traces of that early Hollywood history still remain. Just off Palm Canyon drive, you can stroll by an unassuming house with a giant 'L' statue in the driveway. This happened to be the home of — you guessed it — flamboyant performer Liberace, who spent many happy years in the desert.

Nearby sits many other celeb getaways from a bygone era, including the homes of Kirk Douglas, Dean Martin and Marilyn Monroe.

Rockwell exhibit brings Americana to Winnipeg

Art. Iconic illustrations that romanticized American life make their debut in Canada at the Winnipeg Art Gallery

The man whose very name evokes an idealized and nostalgic picture of all things American is making his first — and only — major foray north of the border.

But anyone living outside of Winnipeg will have to travel to see Norman Rockwell's unique view of American life in person. All of his iconic illustrations — which appeared primarily on the cover of The Saturday Evening Post magazine for almost 50 years — and many of his most seminal paintings are on tour and making their one and only Canadian stop at the Winnipeg Art Gallery.

The exhibit, which runs until May 20, is expected to draw not only visitors from across Canada but also many from the northern United States.

"Rockwell — beyond capturing American life ideas, issues and politics — was able to encapsulate much of the 20th century, which is often called, in the world of art, America's century," said Stephen Borys, executive director of the gallery.

"To have one artist following the development of a nation, of a people, from the first decade of the 20th century to the eighth decade is extraordinary."

Many of Rockwell's pieces have become legendary for their Leave It To Beaver reflection of small-town America. Rockwell's work often shunned social conflict, presenting romanticized and humorous depictions of family life.

Walmart heiress draws art fans to the heartland of America

Crystal Bridges. New museum in Arkansas houses some of the most important pieces in the history of the United States

Crystal Bridges is regarded as the most important museum to open in the U.S. in decades, and it has done so in a city of 35,000 in the Ozark Mountains that's served by a single interstate highway that terminates in the middle of town, not far from the headquarters of Walmart Stores Inc.

More than 175,000 people have made their way to the museum in the less than four months since it opened Nov. 11.

The museum serves a busy corridor of four cities in north-west Arkansas that has nearly 500,000 people, and it's just a few minutes away from the Northwest Arkansas Regional Airport. Hotels are plentiful in the area and an upscale 21c Museum Hotel is under construction within walking distance of the museum. So far, zip code surveys of visitors show that the majority of guests — more than 80 per cent — have come from Arkansas, according to statistics provided by the museum.

The Crystal Bridges collection was amassed by Walmart heiress Alice Walton, who used her fortune to stock the galleries with paintings and sculptures that reflect the nation's artistic development and its history, from colonial times to the present. By virtue of a $20-million grant from Walmart, admission is free, as are audio tours of the collection. Some special exhibitions, none of which have yet been announced, may carry a fee.

The regular collection starts with early American paintings and moves forward chronologically. The first view offers a look at a Charles Willson Peale portrait of George Washington, the general in uniform, posed with his hand on a cannon. But in closer view is a landscape by John Taylor and a painting in classical style, Cupid and Psyche, by Benjamin West.

Farther down is the museum's centrepiece, Asher Durand's Kindred Spirits, bought by Walton in 2005 for a reported $35 million, removing the ethereal scene in the Catskill Mountains from its longtime home in the New York Public Library.

That purchase and a number of others drew howls from critics who didn't want to see beloved pieces moved to an unlikely spot in the nation's heartland. But many of the works, purchased by Walton from private collections, have never been on public display before. Organizers noted during previews that the museum's collection is just getting started. Forbes magazine lists Walton as the 10th wealthiest American with $20.9 billion to her name.

Unlikely flavours, textures mingle in Tomato and Sweet Potato soup

Marcona almonds are entirely different than the more common California almond.

A higher fat content explains the textural difference — tender-crunchy and moist.

As for flavour, think savoury and steak-like.

It doesn't hurt they're typically processed by being fried in olive oil, then sprinkled with salt.

1 In a large saucepan over medium-high, heat oil. Add onion, garlic and sweet potato. Sauté for about 10 minutes or until sweet potato starts to brown.

2 Add diced tomatoes, tomato sauce and chicken broth. Bring to a simmer and cook for about 20 minutes or until potato is very tender.

3 Working in batches if needed, transfer soup to a blender and puree until smooth. Return soup to pan, stir in vinegar and season with salt and pepper to taste.

Ingredients

- 30 ml (2 tbsp) olive oil
- 1 onion, finely diced
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 500 ml (2 cups) peeled, diced sweet potato (1 large)
- 1 can (796 ml/28 oz) diced tomatoes
- 1 can (426 ml/15 oz) tomato sauce
- 500 ml (2 cups) chicken broth
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) balsamic vinegar
- Salt and ground black pepper, to taste
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) chopped marcona almonds
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) finely chopped fresh rosemary

4 In a small bowl, mix together almonds and rosemary. Ladle soup into serving bowls, then sprinkle almond mixture over each serving.

Key Lime Smoothie

Treat yourself to a taste of the tropics with this filling breakfast smoothie.

Featuring heart-healthy walnuts and chock-full of omega-3s and fibre-rich avocado, this breakfast replacement will give you the fuel you need to kick-start your day.

1 In a blender or using a hand blender, combine all ingredients and process until smooth, about 1 minute.

- 1/2 avocado
- 1/2 small banana
- 175 ml (3/4 cup) cold water
- 75 ml (1/3 cup) walnuts, chopped into halves or crumbs
- 75 ml (1/3 cup) low-fat coconut milk
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) honey
- Juice of 1 fresh lime

The summer job search starts now

The heat is on. Many companies have already started their summer hiring; take down these tips and get yourself out there

LAUREN FRIESE

Job search outside the lines
Most students have a very narrow view of what job opportunities are available to them based on their degree, but you can potentially put your education to use in almost any industry.

For example, as a finance student, don't only apply to banks. Check out or create finance-related jobs in other industries or types of businesses that may also need people in finance, which is every industry and business!

Start building your online presence

Develop a simple online portfolio or blog to showcase your work and include the URL on your resumé.

Don't have much work experience? Post relevant school projects, write blog posts about your industry to show how passionate you are, and display recommendations from former bosses, professors, co-workers and classmates.

Actively approach employers online

More and more employers are using online tools to market jobs and interact with potential candidates, so use them to your advantage!

Find and target the companies and people you want to work for on Twitter, LinkedIn, etc., and make an effort to interact with them.

Customize your job applications

One of the biggest and most common mistakes students make is submitting the same resumé to every job. Don't do this!

Instead, create a custom resumé for each role you apply for to show your will to work for that specific organization. Yes, it's a lot more work, but it will pay off when employers see that you're

Money Matters

Summer savings for students

• In 2009, students earned an average of $12.85 per hour at their summer jobs.

• The same year students reported earning an average of $6,670 at their summer jobs.

• On average, students worked 24 hours per week at their summer jobs in 2011.

STATISTICS CANADA

• Students save an average of $1,500 from their summer jobs for the academic year.

THE CANADIAN STUDENT SURVEY

• Last year, 69 per cent of college and university students reported being able to find a summer job by May.

• Last year, 53 per cent of students in the Prairies reported having a full-time summer job compared with only 30 per cent in Ontario.

Mastering the two-job juggle

Double trouble?

Picking up two or more positions this coming summer may mean more work, but it doesn't have to mean more stress.

ALANNA GLASS

Last summer, I took on the responsibility of balancing two part-time jobs. My first job was an unpaid internship for academic credit for three days a week, and my second was as a server at a local restaurant. The internship was part of my program at school, and I used my part-time job to help fund my education, so it was tough to prioritize one over the other. But I survived the summer and I guarantee it can be done!

Be honest about your situation with your employer

Let your bosses know that you're working two jobs and ask if they can accommodate you, particularly if one of them is an unpaid intern-

I was lucky that both of my employers modified my schedules with them so I could do both jobs.

By being open and honest with them from the start, I was able to maintain a manageable schedule that let me balance both opportunities.

you can be booked for more hours. Multitasking and juggling more than one job or responsibility at a time is a lifelong skill, so make the most of this opportunity and have fun!

Stay social

Not only did I leave both summer jobs with incredible experience, but I also had new contacts in my industry of interest and new friends.

Hang out during breaks at work and after your shift is over. The people that you work with understand how important it is to be dedicated to your job, and that's a great starting point of common ground for you to build a friendship on.

Make the most of your experience

Get regular feedback from both of your employers on your performance and progress because that positive validation will keep you motivated to continue.

Get outside!

Outdoor summer job options for students

After eight months of libraries, labs and lectures, you might be itching to spend the summer in the sun. Here's a list of some popular outdoor summer job options. Apply for them early!

- Tree planting. Tree planting is a popular rite of passage for many students and it usually pays well too!
- Landscaping. There is lots of work to be done in the summer tending gardens and lawns.
- Marinas and Boats. Docking boats, sailing, canoeing or kayaking instruction, cruise ships or white water rafting.
- Amusement Parks and Fairs. Water parks, theme parks and local fairs require summer staff to operate rides, sell tickets, hand out cotton candy, run games and more.
- Tourist Sites. Summer is usually the busy season for many tourist destinations, such as towers, historic sites and local museums.

When will disability justify a dismissal in court?

WORKPLACE LAW
Daniel Lublin
dan@canada
employmentlawyer.com
Twitter: @danlublin

Seldom will a temporary illness justify dismissal. But what happens when a sick employee may never return to work?

Can employers discard employees they view as festering on their disability insurance or must they keep their jobs available for an indefinite period of time? According to a recent Ontario case, employers may have more latitude than you think.

When Linda Fraser fell ill she did not think that she would never work again.

Fraser, a long term employee of UBS Global Asset Management, was forced onto UBS' disability plan for depression and anxiety. Her departure was for good.

Fraser applied for and was granted long term disability benefits from UBS' insurance provider in 2007.

According to the terms of the insurance plan, Fraser received disability payments for up to two years since she was unable to perform her given job.

However, after two years, Fraser no longer met the requirements for continued disability payments and the insurance company terminated her coverage.

Fraser did not tell UBS that her insurance coverage terminated and she did not return to work. Therefore, UBS fired her, claiming that her employment was "frustrated" by virtue of her illness.

The legal principle of frustration of contract means that what you have initially bargained for no longer exists.

In workplace law, the issue often arises when employees are absent for an indefinite period of time, without any reasonable likelihood of returning.

If an employment contract is frustrated, then the employer has the right to walk away from the employee, without paying any severance.

Unlike other cases where it is unclear whether or not the employee would ever return to work, in this case, Fraser admitted that her disability was permanent and that she would never work again.

As a result, a judge recently sided with her employer, and dismissed her case.

In the vast majority of cases, frustration of contract will be nearly impossible to prove.

However, the findings of this case appear to turn that notion on its head.

If an employee's prospects for recovering from an illness are dim, companies may be able to rely on this principle and avoid paying damages to an employee it ultimately fired.

Softer grille is the new style

ALL PHOTOS WHEELBASE

Four-wheel-drive

When the going gets tough, the Pilot's available four-wheel-drive system (VTM-4) automatically engages to direct additional torque to the rear wheels as needed before the fronts lose traction.

Power is also distributed aft when accelerating from a stop on slippery surfaces.

Passenger pleasure

For enhanced passenger pleasure, the Pilot has improved noise-reducing seals beneath the body panels, added insulation inside the door pillars and "quieter" acoustic windshield glass.

The cabin features a restyled dashboard, gauges and central panel stack.

2012 Honda Pilot

- Type. Four-door, front-/four-wheel-drive eight-passenger sport utility vehicle.
- Engine (hp): 3.5-litre SOHC V6.
- Mileage: L/100 km (city/hwy) 11.8/7.8 (FWD).
- Base Price (incl. destination): $36,400.

The Pilot's 3.5-litre V6 produces 250 horsepower.

Engine

Honda has coaxed greater operating economy from the standard 250-horsepower 3.5-litre V6 with internal-friction-reducing coatings, by improving alternator performance and with higher efficiency spark plugs. Additional mods include a more efficient power-steering pump.

Review. Honda charts a slight course correction for its popular all-roader

MALCOLM GUNN

Wheelbase Media

It has been said that the eyes are the window to the soul. In automotive terms, perhaps the same can be said for the grille.

More specifically, Honda's eight-passenger Pilot that was redesigned for the 2009 model year projected a go-anywhere strength and ruggedness.

Too tough, maybe. A restyle for 2012 softens the look for friendlier, more aesthetically pleasing demeanor.

Added to the grille adjustment, the Pilot receives new headlamps along with new and repositioned turn signals and a revised front air dam that reduces fuel-robbing aerodynamic drag.

What remains pretty much hidden from view is the Pilot's familial connection to Honda's premium-division Acura MDX.

Both of these unique wagons share the same basic platform, but from that point the comparison pretty much ends.

The Pilot's squared-off shape reinforces its sport utility-vehicle leanings, although ground-clearance limitations restrict the fun to boulder-free terrain and shin-deep – as opposed to knee-deep – mud. Even so, fording a 48-centimetre-deep body of standing water is apparently no problem for this rig.

Taken in its entirety, the modestly tweaked 2012 Pilot isn't a whole lot different.

But in a category where impressions count, this Honda puts its best face forward and backs it up with sufficient comfort and capability to win the day.

The biggest change in the cabin is the centrestack switchgear and gadgetry.

A look at the rear of the Pilot.

Autoknow. Revisiting 1988 with the help of a Hyundai Elantra

GARRY SOWERBY
Wheelbase Media

Life is comfortable inside the Hyundai Elantra GLS.

It's quiet too, except for the flipping-map-page sounds that my wife Lisa Calvi is making.

We are relaxed and joke about all the things we'll do on our escape from North America's gloomy, frozen winter.

Traffic is speedy on the four-lane freeway and even though the cruise control is set precisely at the 120 km/h speed limit, almost every car on the road is passing us. In the late afternoon the sun is high, looking more like noon.

My mind wanders then focuses on the last time I drove this Chilean section of the Pan American Highway. That was 25 years ago and instead of motoring south to the Colchagua Valley in a nimble and sporty Elantra, it was north in a diesel pick-up truck. It wasn't my loving wife beside me but burley Montana-based Rolling Stone magazine writer Tim Cahill.

The interior of the Elantra is neat and tidy. There's perfect instrumentation, my iPhone on the centre console and laptop computers in the back seat beside a Nikon digital camera.

Want to touch base with home? Simply pick up that iPhone and call, text or email. No need, we'll be in

Quote

"Driving Chilean secondary roads is like playing an arcade game. Traffic moves at a lively clip and tailgating seems a national sport as drivers prepare to pass."

Garry Sowerby

Santa Cruz, hub of the Colchagua Valley winery area, settled into the cosy Hotel TerraVina in an hour. Our biggest problem will be deciding whether to try the upscale Italian Restaurant across the vineyard or the cute Peruvian one down the road for a late sunset dinner.

Twenty-five years ago when Tim and I were at this point in the first production 1988 GMC 3500 diesel Sierra pick-up, things were different. We had driven non-stop for three days from Ushuaia on the Argentina side of Tierra del Fuego, about the same duration since Lisa and I arrived in Santiago.

The Sierra was filthy inside and out. Tired and wound tight with what lay ahead, we looked and smelled the part; bleary-eyed young men bent on setting a new record for the quickest time from the bottom to the top of the Americas to set a Guinness record. We were hoping to rendezvous with a container ship in Carthana, Columbia on Day 11 of the quest. We had no iPhone, laptop computers or digital cameras because they did not exist. Texting, email, fax machines or a freeway Chilean sector of the Pan American Highway? Dream on.

Day tripping south of the equator makes for long days as the sun goes down at 10 p.m. in the winter. GARRY SOWERBY/WHEELBASE MEDIA

"Take the Carrtera del Vino exit four kilometres past San Fernando then its about 45 minutes to the hotel." Lisa snaps me out of the daydream.

Over the next week we slip into vacation mode as every day seems like two. With sunset close to 10 p.m.

winter days are long that far south of the equator. Life at Hotel TerraVina surrounded by a seemingly endless vineyard is relaxed.

A week in Chile's premium wine-making area tucked in the Andean foothills 200 kilometres south of the sprawling capital Santiago is like an all-inclusive holiday, indeed. However, rather than being trapped in the confines of a Caribbean or Mexican beach resort with throngs of North American vacationers, Colchagua Valley with its meandering back roads, superb wineries and funky commercial hub, Santa Cruze, is a resort all its own.

On the 11th day, we load the Hyundai for the three-hour drive back to Santiago and our flight home. As I set the Elantra's cruise control at 120 km/h, I look over at Lisa. She is tanned and relaxed as she checks e-mail on her iPhone.

"There's a message here from the airline," she says. "Looks like the Business Class upgrades have come through."

How times change.

Giving small cars some serious attitude

Small cars were looking more sleek and sporty at the Geneva Auto Show on Tuesday as global automakers struggling to make a profit in Europe tried to entice consumers to look past the continent's economic gloom.

Ford premiered the B-Max, a subcompact aimed at families, while Mercedes is looking for younger buyers – read under 50 – for the new A-Class. Audi rolled out the third-generation in its A3 series, which 15 years ago was the first compact in the premium market.

Fiat launched its 500L, an elongated version of the tiny 500 city car that is being made in Serbia, and Toyota has put a little snarl on the hybrid version of its bestselling Yaris to give it a more aggressive look. Peugeot is setting an automotive standard by making its new 208 smaller than its predecessor.

The launches are a far cry from the days when small cars were spartan money-savers. While remaining easy on fuel consumption and light on emissions, these models are tooled with the latest safety features and touches of luxury

By the numbers

58%

Fiat is among a long list of European automakers that is losing money in Europe that includes Peugeot-Citroen PSA, General Motors' Adam Opel, and Renault. Fiat is aiming to build cars in Italy for export to the United States, where it has a 58.8 per cent share in Chrysler through a nearly three-year-old alliance.

to spruce up the compact and subcompact segments that comprise some 80 per cent of the European market.

"Remember when smaller cars used to be cheap and cheerful? Now the consumers want the finest quality, the finest fuel efficiency, safety and design," said Ford CEO Alan Mulally.

The problem for European mass market automakers is that consumer demand has shrivelled under the pressure of the sovereign debt crisis: this year sales are expected to shrink nearly five per cent to 12.9 million units, according to the Center for Automotive Research.

Sex. Suburban mom or madam — she's jailed on a $2-million bond

Is Anna Gristina a mom — or a madam?

Prosecutors say she's an arrogant, multimillion-dollar head of a prostitution ring.

They say she has boasted of ties to law enforcement and has stashed cash to flee if authorities close in on her.

But Gristina's advocates portrayed her Tuesday as a dedicated suburban mom, animal rescuer and former real estate broker who was working on building an on-line dating service.

The reality is Gristina is jailed on a seven-figure bail on a single charge of promoting prostitution.

Millionaire?

• Prosecutors say Gristina was heard to claim during a five-year investigation that she'd made millions of dollars over about 15 years of arranging trysts.

"A caring mother of four has been slapped with a $2 million bond" one of her lawyers, Peter Gleason, said after a New York judge refused Tuesday to lower the bail.

Gristina, a bespectacled 44-year-old Scottish immigrant, has pleaded not guilty.

The Metro Race for Space 2012 competition is global, and the prize is the stuff dreams are made of.

Ours is the first generation to have the opportunity to explore space as a tourist, and a Metro reader will be one of the first to do it.

What will it be like?

At 60,000 metres the curvature of the Earth can be seen, surrounded by the black void of outer space.

To prepare for the weightlessness, the contest winner will be required to undergo two to four days of training in the Netherlands.

The SXC Lynx takes off from Curaçao in the Caribbean for a one-hour flight.

Participants are required to complete a quiz and submit an inspiring proposal.

In addition to the global winner, a local winner will receive a secondary prize.

The local winner will be selected based on the highest number of Facebook "likes."

The global winner — the person who gets to go into space — will be selected by a global jury that includes Metro International members. They will conduct in-depth interviews.

The winner must be 18 years old by liftoff in 2014.

Extraordinary heroism and loss in tornado

Indiana. Woman saves children, loses legs as tornado destroys home

A woman who saved her two children by binding them together with a blanket and shielding them with her body as a tornado ripped apart their house lost parts of both her legs, which were crushed by the falling debris, her husband says.

Stephanie Decker, a 36-year-old sleep specialist, lost one leg above the knee and the other above the ankle, her husband said Monday. She was in serious but stable condition at a Kentucky hospital. The couple's eight-year-old son and five-year-old daughter survived Friday's storm unscathed.

"I told her, 'They're here because of you,'" Joe Decker said by telephone from the University of Louisville Hospital. "I let her know that nothing else matters. I said, 'You're going to be here for your kids, and you get to see them grow up.'"

Joe, 42, was at Silver Creek High School in Sellersburg, Ind., where he teaches algebra, when the tornado hit.

With storms expected, the school had been locked down, and he was debating whether to try to race home. He exchanged a series of texts with his wife, urging her to get herself and their children into the basement of their sprawling, three-storey brick-and-stone home in Marysville, Ind.

He said his wife told him later that she was in their walk-out basement, which had French doors leading outside and a wall of windows, when she saw the tornado approaching, moving across the family's six-hectare plot. Stephanie had already tied a blanket around both children and to herself, and she threw herself on top of the children.

"She said she felt the whole house start to go, and then she felt like it moved them about before it kind of wedged her in there, but she was able to keep the kids from moving away," Joe said.

When the tornado passed, their son Dominic Decker ran across the street to seek help from neighbours.

YOU'RE MORE LIKELY TO GET STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

JUST SAYIN'

The next time you feel the urge to buy a lottery ticket, blame Louise White.

She's the little 81-year-old lady from Rhode Island who won $336.4 million after she bought the winning ticket at a Stop & Shop.

And now she has all her money in what she calls the Rainbow Sherbet Trust in honour of the sherbet she bought along with the ticket.

At first, she couldn't believe her good fortune, at one point turning off her computer and turning it back on again. The numbers were still the same. She kept the winning ticket in her Bible until it was time to claim her prize.

Ain't that cute?

I hate Louise White.

Just when I've finally made a rational decision to stop throwing perfectly good money down the toilet, never to be spent again, someone like Louise White pops up. Even though there's a one-in-175,223,510 chance of winning the Powerball, Louise won it anyway. I mean there's as much chance of Louise winning the Powerball lottery as there is of that rainbow sherbet winning the Powerball lottery.

So, starting today, it's back to throwing good money down the toilet. If you don't play, it don't pay — or something.

My wife, who never fails to buy a lottery ticket for the 6-49 or Lotto Max, spends the rest of the week figuring out how she's going to spend the money. IMHO, she always gives too much of it away. Right off the bat, half goes to "Africa," while the rest goes to pay the debts of everyone in her extended family, leaving insufficient funds to keep me in the lifestyle to which I could easily become accustomed.

It never occurs to me, until halfway into the argument, that it's not going to happen anyway and I'm getting all red in the face for nothing, when there are lots of more important things I could get red in the face about.

Still, consider LeRoy and Deborah, Louise's son and daughter-in-law. LeRoy and Deborah didn't even have to fork over two bucks to buy the ticket, and now they're the beneficiaries of Louise's good fortune. I wonder if they ever had the argument. My wife is aware of my vulnerable position. "No money for you," she warns.

Fair warning: The odds of winning the Lotto Max are much better than winning the Powerball. Only one in 85,900,584. More than twice as likely. Of course, the odds of being struck by lightning are only 2.3 million to one. The odds of being hit by an ice-cream delivery truck full of rainbow sherbet are only one in 625.

Which reminds me to look both ways before I cross the street. On my way to the lottery kiosk.
